

Totally Not Fake News

Welcome to the Totally Not Fake News Homepage!
Here's the best place to get all of your completely factual information!

Today's Latest Story

Officials recently just learned of the existence of Mar Meyd, a woman living in the ocean. Scientists have no idea how she hasn't drowned.

According to Dr. Science, the man who wrote Water Stuff, this shouldn't be possible according to the laws of science:

"A human living underwater? That's outrageous!" -Dr. Science when asked about Mar Meyd.

Apparently, she's built a mansion underwater from the remnants of ships and planes that have fallen into the ocean.

However, we're not completely sure that this is true. The materials from ships and planes likely wouldn't be usable.

Hm. Actually... maybe she found remnants of a cruise liner or something. Whatever it was, this lead came from the local crazy old man.

As much as we'd like to believe it, it's probably not true.

We'll try our best to keep you updated on this totally true story as new developments unfold.

Other Stories

None yet. Check back soon!

Introducing Our Staff

Fae Ker is our head writer. She's incredibly efficient and she just LOVES to be creative.

Lai Yer is our main editor. He knows exactly how to make any article impossible to stop reading.

Gri Dee handles all the finances. He makes sure to give the others at least 5% of the profit for their efforts! But there's also only four of us... so I wonder where the other 85% goes...

Wry Tah maintains the website and made it possible for Fae and Lai to directly post their stories to the site!